THROWN FROM HORSE, POLICEMAN BREAKS LEG

Injured Man Lies Helpless Nearly an Hour Awaiting Help.

For nearly an hour this morning Mounted Policeman John Bridgman of the Canarsie station lay helpless, with a broken leg, in a lonely part of Kew-Forest Park, in the outskirts of the Flatlands section of Brooklyn. His horse "Gilt" had slipped in the mud and thrown his rider. Bridgman's left leg was broken and his head cut by the fall.

He did not lose consciousness and "Gilt" instead of running away nosed his master as though he would have liked to help him. But Bridgman was in great pain and was rapidly losing consciousness when John Killarney, a Kings Highway farmer, passed along in his market wagon at 6 o'clock. Bridgman called to him and the farmer bundled him into his rig and drove him to the farm house where he telephoned to the Kings County Hospital for an ambulance. Dr. McSweney took the policeman to the hospital.
